Virtual Event

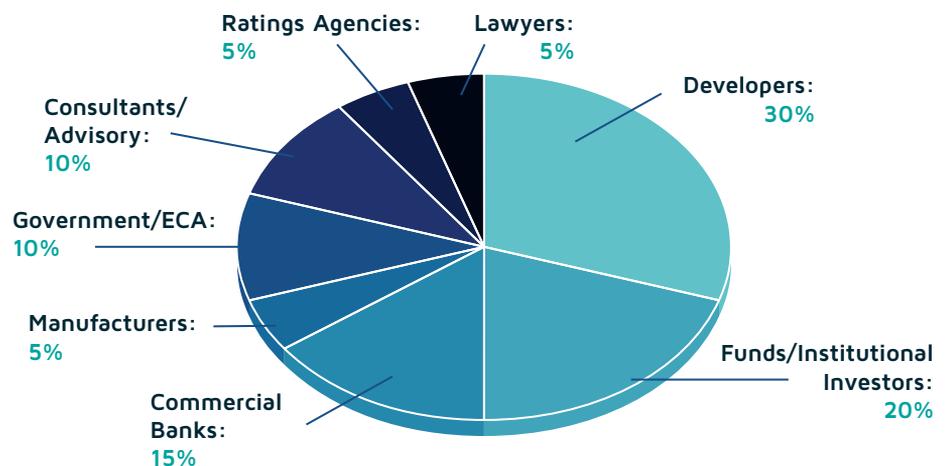

A PREMIUM VIRTUAL OFFSHORE WIND EVENT CONNECTING PROFESSIONALS FROM MATURE AND EMERGING MARKETS

Offshore wind has been expanding outside of its early footprint in Northern Europe to North America, Asia and the Mediterranean and international commercial bank lenders, and many institutional investors are now comfortable with the associated risk profile. But each new market brings its own regulatory and market regime, its own supply chain issues and its own resource and demand challenges which can quickly change attitudes.

This event encourages offshore wind professionals from across global development and financing ecosystems to share their practical experiences and put companies operating in dispersed but promising markets to share best practices and experience with more established peers.

The Proximo virtual event platform allows for fluid networking among delegates from around the world. Send a message, arrange a call or video call, one to one or in groups, you choose. Sessions are fully interactive including popular adaptations of gameshows with live q&a, audience polling and more. Access this event with a Proximo membership today and unlock a host of exciting and productive energy and infrastructure benefits.
